PULITZER DIES IN SOUTHLAND HONORED LIFE

End Comes to Veteran Editor on Private Yacht.

OWNER OF NEW YORK WORLD

Austrian Jew Who Landed in Boston Without Means Enlisted in Army and at Close of War Went West to Grow Up With Country—Had Remarkable Career and at Time of His Death Was Many Times a Millionaire.

New York, Oct. 30.—Death came suddenly to Joseph Pulitzer, editor and proprietor of the New York World and St. Louis Post-Dispatch, while on board his yacht Liberty, at anchor in the harbor of Charleston, S. C.

He had been ill for only about 48 hours, and until just before he died it was believed that the illness was only a slight indisposition. Death was caused by heart trouble, caused, it is believed, by an attack of acute indigestion. Mrs. Pulitzer arrived from New York and had been at her husband's bedside only about a half-hour before his death.

Mr. Pulitzer was 64 years of age. He had been in his usual health up to the time of the brief illness preceding his death. Last Wednesday he left New York on his yacht for a short cruise to the south, intending to be back in New York for election day. He was accompanied by his youngest son, Herbert, 14.

Mr. Pulitzer leaves three sons and two daughters, Miss Edith and Miss Constance Pulitzer.

Mr. Pulitzer's father was an Hungarian Jew, his mother a Catholic. He was born at Budapest on April 11, 1847. During his childhood in Hungary he received some instruction from a private tutor, which was the sum total of his schooling. Forty-seven years ago he landed at Boston, a tall, lean emigrant over six feet in Automobile Parade Chases Up and Down Boulevards, Sometimes Attaining Speed of 40 Miles an Hour. Taft Stops Long Enough to Tell Colored Y. M. C. A. Members of Work Accomplished by Organization in Far East.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—President Taft's entertainers here gave him an automobile ride which at times quickened the breath of those with him. The nation's chief executive was taken 55 miles through the Chicago park system. At hardly any point minimum speed was 20 miles, and hour, and frequently for short stretches it was increased to 35. The maximum speed was 40 miles, and this was made on Michigan avenue, Chicago's automobile boulevard, which was crowded with automobiles at the time that the president passed. A police car carrying Chief Shuttler led the procession, and a squad of a dozen motorcycle policemen surrounded the president's car.

Biggest Baseball Crowd In The History of the Game

PRIMA DONNAS must soon look to their laurels as money getters if the rewards of successful ball players climb to much loftier heights. The gross receipts of the first game in the world's championship series were $77,359, paid by 38,281 enthusiasts, many of whom parted from $10 hard cash or more for single seats which they bought of speculators. The New York and Athletic players divided $41,000 among themselves, and the real "fans" will not be inclined to say that it was too much. Their opinions as to the actions of the speculators who raised the price of seats to prohibitive figures and kept many devotees of the game from attending are quite different. The crowd in the Giants' stadium, a part of which is shown in the picture, was the greatest that ever watched an athletic event in America.

Jack Tars Will Be Feted Three Days

Monster Fleets Assembled at New York and Los Angeles. New York, Oct. 30.—New York has prepared to entertain for three days this week 20,000 bluejackets on 102 war vessels of the Atlantic fleet, ordered hither for participation in the most ambitious mobilization or fighting craft ever undertaken in this country. In command of Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus, all the available ships of the Atlantic squadron began steaming toward New York harbor last week, and 24 vessels of the Pacific squadron are due at Los Angeles for the west coast naval demonstration there. One hundred and twenty-six in all, they will remain at anchor until Thursday; there will be two nights of illumination, and Jack ashore will have perhaps the greatest land fete of his career. The number of men due at New York alone surpasses the strength of Shafter's army in Cuba.

ARCHBISHOP O'CONNELL

Boston Prelate Reported in Line For Red Hat.

AMERICANS HONORED

Two Will Be Given Red Hats by Pope Nov. 27.

Rome, Oct. 30.—The pope will create a large number of cardinals at the consistory to be held Nov. 27. The Most Reverend John M. Farley, archbishop of New York, and the Most Reverend William H. O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, are among those who will receive the red hat. Mgr. Diomedeo Falconio, apostolic delegate at Washington, also will be elevated, according to the announcement made.

Manchus Flee From Threatened City in Doves.

AMERICANS ORDERED TO COAST

Natives Are in Panic and Forget Hatred For Foreign Soldiers in Mad Effort to Save Themselves From Death When Rebels Pour Over Walls—Tonight Decided Upon as Time For Assault—Rumor Says Emperor Smuggled Away.

Peking, Oct. 30.—This city is the scene of a veritable panic, and the situation is rapidly growing worse. The Manchu women are adopting Chinese dress, some of them even attempting to make their feet look small by peculiarly constructed shoes. The trains that are leaving the capital for the most part are drawn by two engines, so heavily are they loaded, the people sitting on top of their household belongings. Officials are seeking asylum for their wives and children among the foreigners.

Prior to the revolution the newspapers frequently cried out against the presence of foreign soldiers, but the natives are now fleeing to them for shelter. One report fixes tonight for an outbreak, but the presence of 15,000 Manchu troops, against 3,000 Chinese, insures the safety of the capital for the present.

The only danger seems to be from a sudden attack against the throne or against the officials, which might precipitate the threatened massacre by the Manchus. Race feeling is becoming intensified.

Rumors are current that the emperor has been spirited away and that Prince Ching, who is too old for flight, has committed suicide. The American legation has issued orders that women and children living along the Peking-Hankow railway shall proceed as soon as possible to the coast.

MEIGS COUNTY REMAINS IN THE DRY DESERT NEIGHBOR SWITCHES

ROSE LAW ELECTIONS.

- Wyandot county, Tuesday, Oct. 31.
- Marion county, Wednesday, Nov. 1.
- Pickaway county, Thursday, Nov. 2.
- Columbiana county, Friday, Nov. 3.

Are Now Shifting Opinions

Now Believe That Dr. Helene Knabe Was Suicide.

Indianapolis, Oct. 30.—For three hours Miss Augusta Knabe, cousin of the physician who was found with her throat cut in the Delaware flats, was subjected to questions by the detective. She was so nervous she nearly fainted two or three times and stimulants had to be administered.

Though the officers got nothing new on which to work as a clue, the line of questions brought out the fact they took no stock in the murder theory and have gone back to that of suicide, and the questioning also demonstrated that they believed Miss Knabe made away with the instrument of death or knows who did.

Athenians, However Vote for Return of Saloons.

Athens, O., Oct. 30.—Athens county, by a majority of 975, swung back into the wet column after a dry regime of three years. A hard and bitter contest was waged between the two factions since the filing of the wet petition four weeks ago, with 72 per cent of the voters as signers.

Three years ago the county went dry by 1,414. Nelsonville, the largest city, swung from 14 dry to 485 wet. Glouster, with a population of 3,000, increased their wet majority from 20 to 287. Athens, the county seat, was reduced from 223 to 85 dry.

This result affects directly only two townships out of the 14, Trimble and York, as the rest are all dry under the Beal law. A wet petition for the city of Athens will be circulated at once, as they are confident of carrying it now.

Dry Majority Reduced. Pomeroy, O., Oct. 30.—Meigs county, in the second election under the Rose county local option law, decided to remain dry, but by a greatly reduced majority from that of three years ago. According to dry claims, the majority is 78, and the wets concede a dry majority of 52. Middleport, dry three years ago, fell back into the wet column by 45 majority, as against 8 for the drys in 1909. Pomeroy went wet by 447, as against 322 wet three years ago.

WHISKEY SAVES LIFE OF NEGRO MURDERER THE MOB GETS DRUNK

Slips From Noose When Mob Gets Drunk.

Washington, Ga., Oct. 30.—A. D. Walker, colored, escaped from a mob which had taken him from the sheriff after a lrop had been placed about his neck and as the mob was in the act of stringing him up to a limb. He had confessed to the killing of C. S. Hollenheads, a wealthy planter and merchant.

Walker's escape was daring and was made possible only by the fact that the members of the mob were too drunk to conduct a lynching properly.

Hollenheads was killed in his store and suspicion fell on Walker, as his wife had had trouble with the merchant. The sheriff captured Walker and brought him to Washington. As the sheriff was taking the negro to jail he was overpowered by a mob of 50 men and the negro seized.

The would-be lynchers started with the negro to the outskirts of the city where the negro had confessed. The members of the mob had plenty of whiskey and drank freely, so that they were drunk when they reached the place where they intended to lynch the negro. A rope was put about the negro's neck and an attempt was made to string him up, but the would-be lynchers were so drunk they fell to the ground. The negro saw his opportunity and ran away before the mob realized what had happened.

AWFUL WRECK ON C. H. & D. RAILROAD

Bridge Gave Way Near New Jasper

Nineteen Cars Plunged 35 Feet
Into Creek Below

TWO MEN KILLED INSTANTLY

Trains Both Ways Are Delayed for Hours--Work of Removing Wreck May Take Days.

The worst freight wreck that ever occurred on this division of the C. H. & D. occurred near New Jasper, seven miles east of Xenia Sunday morning, when double-header through freight No. 94, went through the high trestle over Caesar's creek, piling nineteen cars into a shapeless mass into the creek 35 feet below, throwing four down the embankment, killing two men and seriously injuring a third.

The dead are Chas. Figgins, of Middleport, O., and Harry Redman, of Xenia, both being killed instantly. James Powers, a half brother to Figgins, escaped death by leaping far out into the creek when he felt the trestlework give way, and landed 50 feet from the point where he leaped, alighting in the mud.

Redman was between two cars, stealing a ride, and was caught and crushed into a shapeless mass. Figgins was hurled into the water directly beneath the great mass of broken and twisted cars, and held under the water while he drowned like a rat in a trap. All three of the men were stealing a ride from Dayton.

The wreck occurred while the train was going at a high rate of speed, both of the engines crossing the big trestle in safety. The engines had barely crossed when all of a sudden one of the freight cars left the track directly upon the trestle, and an instant later the trestle was going to pieces like so many straws, and before any one realized what had happened the trestle had crumbled away and the cars, some loaded, others empty, were piling up in a confused heap in the creek below, and nineteen had plunged into the yawning abyss quicker than it takes to tell it.

Most of the cars were empty, but some contained ore and lumber. One car of lumber was upon the brink of the trestle when the crash came, and one half went into the creek, leaving the other half hanging upon the abutment. The train crew all escaped injury, although some of them had exceedingly close calls.

The crash of the cars as they fell into the confused heap in the creek, was heard for two miles, and it was only a short time until hundreds of people were upon the scene assisting in the work of recovering the dead and searching the ruins for injured.

All traffic was tied up on the road and the east-bound morning passenger train, which was only a short distance behind the wrecked train, ran up to a point near the wreck and after hard work the passengers were transferred to the west-bound morning train. This transfer must continue until the wreck can be cleared away and the trestle rebuilt which may be a number of days. A large number of passengers were compelled to wait for over three hours at this point on both east-bound trains Sunday.

The wreck crew has been working incessantly upon the big wreck, and it is a big task to clear up the wreck and reconstruct the bridge. Many of the cars being steel, the wreckage cannot be removed by burning.

The property loss will reach up into thousands. It is without doubt the most disastrous freight wreck that ever occurred between Dayton and Wellston. The exact cause of the wreck has not been ascertained.

Mr. Figgins was raised in the Milledgeville neighborhood, his foster father being Robert Parker, and at the time he was killed was on his way to Milledgeville to meet his aged mother at the home of Mr. Henry Jones.

He carried a card in the United Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, and boarded the train in order to chat with his friends, and not because he wished to "beat" his way, as he was in good circumstances.

He has many friends in this city and a great many throughout the Milledgeville neighborhood.

QUIT CALOMEL!

Thousands Are Turning from This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Portsmouth, Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-oil colored tablet.

The results of fifteen years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

"Every Little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

All druggists sell them in neat vest pocket sizes at 10c and 25c.

Another Porker Shows Tuberculosis

That tuberculosis still infests swine in Madison county was proven again last week, when a fine 400 lb. porker sold to the London Produce Company by Frank Wood, of Madison county, was slaughtered and found to be alive with the disease, and capable of inoculating an entire regiment of hogs with the disease.

After the London physicians had examined the animal it was dumped into the rendering vat and reduced to fertilizer material.

Small Mountain Of Crushed Stone

On the Col. B. H. Millikan farm near Bpna Vista is a small mountain of crushed stone which the stone crusher, put to work on the farm last year, has prepared for use upon the public roads.

In the big mass of crushed stone there are approximately 7,000 cubic yards, or nearly 5,000 loads, which will probably be utilized upon the roads throughout southern Fayette.

Up to the present time the amount of this excellent road building material that has been hauled and distributed upon the roads, reaches 1,036 loads, and when the stone becomes packed it will outwear the gravel roads by several years.

Next year the firm of Millikan and Martin will put a larger crusher to work and employ more than a score of men, if present plans are carried out. The stone on Col. Millikan's farm is of extra fine quality for road building purposes.

AUTO EXPERT IN PERIL.

The great automobile industry which is the marvel of the twentieth century has been developed at a terrific cost of human energy.

The well-known automobile engineer of New York City, C. M. Archer, had a very trying experience which he relates in a letter as follows: "As a result of overwork in my profession my health became broken down a year ago. This grew worse and I became very weak and nervous. Then I began to take Vinol and now I am strong and well again."

"Vinol has certainly worked a miracle in my case. It is the greatest body builder I have ever seen and nothing equals it. You may publish this for the benefit of every man and woman who wants to know the way back to health and strength."

There are many overworked men and women in this town who ought to take Vinol right now and recover their health and strength while they can. Do not delay another day. We guarantee Vinol to do you good and give back your money if it does not. Blackmer and Tanquary.

Gets Double Dose; Assaulted Officer

Ralph Woodruff, aged about 35, who is employed in this city at present, was placed under arrest Sunday night for being intoxicated. Officer Haggard made the arrest, and Woodruff, who is a quiet man when sober, refused to accompany the officer and attacked him.

Haggard was forced to use his mace, knocking the man down, after which he accompanied the officer without further trouble until he reached the county jail. Taking the officer by surprise, he again assaulted him, and was again knocked down for his trouble.

When arraigned before Mayor Allen upon a charge of being intoxicated and for assaulting an officer, Woodruff stated that he did not know what had happened, and that the last he remembered was taking a drink of "Green River" which he had shipped from Chillicothe "for a bad cold" as he explained it.

Upon the charge of drunkenness Woodruff drew a fine of $5 and the costs, and for assaulting an officer he received $25 and costs, all of which was suspended with the exception of $5 and the costs, which Woodruff paid, expressing his regret that he had been intoxicated and unruly.

"I have no complaint against you" he said to Officer Haggard, you have always treated me like a gentleman, and I am sorry that I caused you any trouble. Shake!" And they shook hands.

Tuberculosis Society of State Incorporated

Incorporation papers were filed last week with the Secretary of State Charles H. Graves, for the incorporation of the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. The objects of the society are stated to be the spreading of knowledge concerning the causes, treatment and prevention of the disease, and the organization of local committees in all parts of the state.

The society was organized in 1901 and reorganized last fall. Incorporators are Dr. Frank Warner, President of the State Board of Health, Columbus; Dr. John H. Lowman, of Cleveland; Dr. R. H. Bishop, Jr., of Cleveland; Mr. Charles L. LaMonte, Columbus, and Professor James E. Hagerty, Ohio State University.

The headquarters of the society are located in Columbus.

Mont Baughn's Auto Runs Over Boy in Columbus

Monday's Columbus Journal contains an account of a distressing accident, in which a former Washingtonian, Mr. Mont C. Baughn, now living at Marysville, figures.

Mr. Baughn was driving his car down High street Sunday, when William Overman, an eight-year-old boy, living at 2443 Neil avenue, stepped from the street car and was struck by the auto, knocked down and the wheels ran over his body. The boy was taken to the Protestant hospital and was found to have suffered a fractured collar bone, many bruises and internal injuries, his condition being serious.

Mrs. Overman stepped from the car behind her son, but was not hit. Presumably Mr. Baughn did not see the boy step from the car in time to stop the machine.

$100 and Costs Given This "Swipe"

William Upthegrove, colored, said to be a former well known "swipe" of this county and know far and near among race horse men, was arrested in Marysville last week, charged with bootlegging.

Upthegrove stood trial but was found guilty and given $100 and the costs. His attorneys at once gave notice of their intention of carrying the case up. Upthegrove has always borne a good reputation, and it is said that the case against him was none too strong.

RECKLESS AUTOMOBILE DRIVER

CRASHES INTO A BUGGY

INJURING BOTH THE OCCUPANTS

Buggy Reduced to Kindling Wood and Scrap Iron

YOUNG LADY SEVERELY HURT

Auto Driver Put on All Speed and Headed Away for This City Without Investigation.

Another instance of reckless auto driving occurred just south of Madison Mills on the Columbus pike Sunday evening at 6:30, when some unknown parties, driving a runabout and headed toward this city, crashed into a buggy containing Otis Holland, son of Mrs. Temperance Grove, east of this city, and Miss Mayme Crowe, of Springfield, formerly of the Madison Mills neighborhood.

The couple were driving along the road on the proper side, they claim, and the auto overtook them, crashing into the buggy and reducing it to atoms, throwing both occupants to the roadside and knocking the horse down.

Holland escaped with a few injuries of minor importance, but Miss Crowe was less fortunate, and in addition to sustaining some severe bruises and cuts, had the ligaments of one ankle so twisted and torn that she may not be able to use the foot for several weeks, or even months.

The reckless driver of the machine did not stop to see what damage he had done, or to render assistance, but straightened his machine upon its course and, turning on speed, quickly left the spot, headed toward this city. Mr. Frank Dorn, who was within 50 yards of the spot where the smashup occurred and was compelled to stop his machine to prevent a collision between his machine and the fellow who caused the mischief.

Miss Crowe was removed to the home of Mr. B. H. Vance, where she has been boarding while teaching school, and a physician was summoned.

Holland was in this city early Monday morning looking for the man who caused the trouble, and vows he will make him pay dearly for his reckless driving.

James C. Dahlgren, "Cowboy" Mayor of Omaha, "Throws the Lariat"

Mayor Jas. C. Dahlgren is of an interesting and impressive personality. Starting his career as a cowboy, he is at present Mayor of Omaha, and has the following record to his credit: Sheriff of Dawes Co., Neb., three terms; Mayor of Chadron, two terms; Democratic Nat'l Committeeman, eight years; Mayor of Omaha, six years, and in 1910 Candidate for Governor of Nebraska. Writing to Foley & Co., Chicago, he says: "I have taken Foley Kidney Pills and they have given me a great deal of relief so I cheerfully recommend them." Yours truly,

DEATHS

KING.

Paul D. King, aged 9 months, son of Harry and Alma King, died Sunday at 12 o'clock at the residence on the Greenfield pike.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10 o'clock, Sun time, at the residence. Burial in Washington cemetery.

DEATH OF CARLISLE BARRERE.

Misses Gertrude and Edith Gardner received a telegram Sunday evening announcing the death of their cousin, Mr. Carlisle Barrere, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at his apartments in the Normandie Hotel, Columbus.

Mr. Barrere never regained consciousness after the paralytic stroke of last Wednesday.

The funeral will take place Wednesday and burial will be in Chillicothe.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

"Elmridge", the handsome suburban home of Mr. S. F. Snider was the scene of a beautiful Halloween party with Misses Elizabeth Snider and Frances Blackmore entertaining 35 girls and boys in royal fashion.

The big house, with its many rooms, was entirely lighted by pumpkin lanterns, their grotesque faces greeting the guests from the top of the stairway and from every nook and corner.

The Halloween idea was carried out in elaborate decorations of autumn leaves, fodder and corn, beautifully arranged by Miss Rose Noble and Mrs. Jess Marshall.

A genuine fortune teller revealed the future in the uncanny light of a picturesque fortune teller's booth.

A fun provoking contest was the naming of ghostly objects in a dark room, Miss Jennie Davis winning a cup and saucer as the prize. The pumpkin pie contest was greatly enjoyed. The girls in the parlor made all possible words out of "Pumpkin Pie," while the boys in the library wrote recipes for pumpkin pie. Miss Minnie Mayo won the girls' prize and Walter Karney the boys' prize, china plates, holding little pumpkin pies.

The dining room was fantastically decorated, the centerpiece of the table, Mr. Snider's prize pumpkin, made into a fruit basket and holding a pyramid of red apples, purple grapes and lucious fruits.

A most appetizing Halloween lunch was served and sweet cider all evening.

The evening was one of the merriest on record, with Mr. and Mrs. Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Blackmore, Miss Mary Kennedy and Mr. Logan Busick assisting the young people in the rounds of Halloween pranks and fortune telling.

A quiet wedding of much interest in this city is that of Mr. Perse C. Harlow and Miss Blanch Beitzer, of Covington, Ky., which took place Saturday, October the 28th, at the residence of Rev. Fr. Bossard, in Covington.

The bridegroom is the youngest son of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Harlow, and while he has been identified with Washington's society and club life, being deservedly popular, his real interest centers in the management of his farm and the study of progressive farming.

The bride is a charming girl, connected with well-known families of this city, and having already a number of acquaintances in our social circles.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow came up from Cincinnati Saturday evening and went at once to their new home, a cosy bungalow, which Mr. Harlow has just completed on his farm, a mile southwest of town, and was completely furnished in readiness for their coming.

They have the best wishes of friends galore.

Foley's Kidney Remedy vs. a Hopeless Case.

Hon. Ark. J. E. Freeman says: "I had a severe case of kidney trouble and could not work and my case seemed hopeless. I used several well known kidney remedies, and had the services of a doctor, all of which gave me no relief. One large bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured me and I have never been bothered since. I have also recommended it to my friends who all received the same good results." Blackmer & Tanquary.

HOGS CAUSE TROUBLE

FIGHT BETWEEN NEIGHBORS

MAYOR SOLVES RIDDLE

Luther Maag, living near the Catholic cemetery, appeared before Mayor Allen Sunday, carrying his hand in a sling, and told a story of how he had had trouble with Val Rinehart, a neighbor, and had hurt his hand in the melee.

Before Maag completed his story, Rinehart appeared, and filed an affidavit against Maag for assaulting him. It seems that Maag's porkers had been gorging themselves upon Rinehart's potatoes and cabbage, and when Rinehart attempted to drive them out, Maag assaulted him, and in the mix-up received a badly injured hand.

As the two men had been having trouble over a line fence, and after hearing the stories of both men, Mayor Allen fined Maag $15 and suspended the fine providing he would hire an engineer, have the line established, and construct a new fence, one-half of the new fence to become the property of Rinehart when completed.

Maag agreed to do this, and the arrangement being satisfactory to Rinehart, the affair was allowed to end with this settlement.

NERVOUS TROUBLE HAS MANY PHASES

Strain and Worry of Modern Life Makes Numbers of People Physical Wrecks.

The country is filled with half sick worn out, nervous people. The cause is nervous debility and it is produced by the strain and worry of modern life.

The symptoms of nervous debility are stomach trouble, uneasy sleep, nervousness, little energy, or vitality, constipation, poor circulation, bad memory, cold feet, weak back and susceptibility to coughs and colds.

A man or woman afflicted with this debilitated condition has little happiness, as the trouble always produces a mental depression that causes the sufferer to look on the gloomy side of life, and be dissatisfied with the present, and have small hope for the future.

Anything, to be successful, should add to the happiness of the human race. No medicine ever before sold in the United States has been so tremendously successful as the wonderful new tonic "Tona Vita." The reason is plain. "Tona Vita" is bringing back health and happiness to thousands of discouraged, "rundown" men and women.

Are you in this rundown, debilitated condition? Do you tire easily, sleep poorly and feel half dead most of the time? If you are you can get immediate relief and renew your ability to fight life's battles by letting this great Tonic build you up and restore your strength. Don't drag around feeling miserable and hopeless another day. You will positively be astonished how quickly "Tona Vita" will start you on the road to health. The tonic is sold with the distinct understanding that it must renew your health, or the price is refunded.

Lee's Rhubarb Laxative is an assistant remedy to "Tona Vita." It is to be used in cases of chronic constipation. There is no plant known to modern medicine so thoroughly reliable and harmless as rhubarb. It is nature's own laxative and instead of straining the intestines, like other drugs, tones them up and gives them new strength. Lee's Rhubarb Laxative is the safest possible laxative for children and they like the taste. It should be in every household.

These two great preparations are sold in Washington C. H. by Brown's Drug Store.

HALLOWE'EN

As Halloween approaches, warnings are issued, as they have been annual at this time of year for many decades, that rowdyism will not be tolerated.

Police, school authorities and parents all join in the request for a quiet, decent observance of the evening, when, according to an ancient custom which has long endured in Christian countries, that on this night, the eve of All Saints' Day, witches and hobgoblins are supposed to be abroad.

The witches having so far failed to materialize on the eve of All Saints' day, the duty of carrying out the work which has been assigned to the witches, has been assumed by the young people.

In the discharge of this duty, all sorts of pranks are perpetrated by the irrepressible youths the world over.

Windows are marked with soap, "tick tacks" are rigged up and placed in commission to frighten the timid and carry out the program assigned by superstition to the witches.

With innocent pranks on this night, no red blooded human being has a word of complaint, but with the malicious destruction of the property of other people, which hoodlums some time indulge in, the officials of the civilized world have been battling for years.

During the last quarter of a century Halloween has been made the pretext for the commission of all sorts of deviltry by those who incline toward evil.

Happily though the age of vandalism is passing, thanks to a concerted effort of decent people.

It is to be hoped that the young folks of Washington will respect the property rights of others, bar hoodlums and vandals from their ranks and enjoy Halloween this year in the proper spirit which has in it an element of religious reverence as well as permitting pranks which seem uncanny to those not in on the play.

SECRETS.

Secrets have always played an important part in all human affairs and they probably always will be an important factor to be considered in all matters of either personal or state importance as long as time, as we humans understand it, lasts.

From the little secrets of childhood to the great secrets of state which change the maps of the world, and shape the destinies of great nations, these facts known only to a select few, cut an important figure.

A secret is not worth much unless it is shared with some one.

If it is a happy one then some dear friend or close relative must be told of its existence in order that the delicious happiness of it may be divided.

If it is a sorrow, then the misery of its knowledge demands company.

Secrets of almost every kind are bound to escape the confines which the original possessor has allotted to them and from this probability of escape comes the fascinating excitement to the possessors and from the escape when it actually does occur comes the train of consequences happy or wretched according to the character of the concealed truth.

There is nothing more prized than the possession of a real secret. The childhood secrets, the boy and girl secrets, the secrets of the sweethearts and the secrets of the home, each following along in the proper sequence go far to make the happy or dreary side of life.

So much for the individuals. Life would be dull indeed without its happy secrets and life would be unendurable but for the love of those with whom we share our miseries and by so doing convert the awful truth into a secret.

Nations are similar in that as in many other respects to individuals. Nations possess their happy truths and have their secret plans for the future as well as the knowledge of their short-comings and they, too, must have a confidant among the nations.

This life of ours is made up of secrets closely related to all affairs, great and small, and many careers depend for success upon keeping sacred an entrusted secret. Many are blasted by the disclosures of secrets.

The skeleton in the closet is often permitted through the indiscretion or the wickedness of a trusted one, to stalk forth in all its hideous nakedness and that which was a secret has become public property.

The few, if they exist at all, except infancy, of whom it can be said their life is an open book, miss much of the misery and much of the happiness of the average frail human.

Poetry—Today

HER TALENT.

Neither wise nor yet discerning.
All her little store of learning
Consisted of such trifles as she had learned by chance.
In her talk she was not witty,
And you couldn't call her pretty,
Yet she never lacked admirers nor for partners at a dance.

In face and form this fairy
Was—well, very ordinary;
Her clothes were inexpensive—the women called them loud;
But at every ball and party
Her reception was most hearty
From the men, who all would gather about her in a crowd.

She was tiny and sourestish,
And just a bit coquettish,
But for music, art and letters she had no gift at all.
Her fortune was most meager,
Yet all the men seemed eager
On the slightest provocation at her little feet to fall.

Her cooking was atrocious—
It would make a man ferocious;
But by men this girl was voted a most engaging elf.
Yes, every man who knew her
Persistently would woo her,
For—she gave him rapt attention while he talked about himself.

Defense Objects To Trial Judge

Defense in McNamara Case Want New Judge.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—Strong possibility of an appeal for a change of judge marked the close of the third week of the McNamara murder trial, which ended in a general snarl. One such demand already has been refused by Judge Walter Bordwell, the refusal being backed by an affidavit from Judge George H. Hutton, presiding judge of the 12 departments of the superior court of Los Angeles county, certifying the impartiality of Judge Bordwell.

A further appeal, if made, would be based to a great extent, it is known, upon two rulings made by Judge Bordwell, in which he denied challenges by the defense against A. C. Winter and Walter N. Frampton as jurors. Both were challenged for bias in saying that it would be necessary for J. B. McNamara to prove his innocence before they would vote for acquittal.

height, and came to New York with a 20-franc piece as his sole belongings. At the time of his death his wealth is estimated at more than $20,000,000.

Enlisted in Army.

Soon after landing in Boston, Mr. Pulitzer enlisted in the Union army and served in the civil war. At the close of the war he landed in New York, and finding nothing to do drifted to St. Louis, and did odd jobs on river boats for two years, putting in his spare time studying at the public library. Finally he landed a $10 a week job as reporter on the Westliche Post. Just 10 years later he was able to buy the Dispatch and united the paper with the Post as the Post-Dispatch, which he owned until his death.

The new paper was successful and Mr. Pulitzer then began to look toward New York. On May 10, 1883, he bought the New York World from Jay Gould. A presidential campaign was looming ahead and Mr. Pulitzer launched into the fight to elect Grover Cleveland. During the campaign Tammany rewarded him with the nomination for congress from the Ninth New York district and he was elected. He resigned his seat in congress three months after his election, gave his salary to charity and returned to his editorial work.

In 1886 he purchased the Park Row property, where the Pulitzer building now stands. For more than a score of years he has been in the building but rarely, only about two or three times, but there has been no time when he has not been in intimate touch with the editorial and business departments of his properties.

Sun Set For Him.

Late one afternoon 22 years ago Joseph Pulitzer, then but 42 years old, was leaning on the rail of a yacht as the boat was steaming out of the Bosporus and into the Black sea, looking toward the setting sun through eyes which for years had been strained.

"Has the sun set so soon?" Mr. Pulitzer asked suddenly of his secretary.

"Not quite, Mr. Pulitzer," was the answer.

"Yes it has," the editor insisted. "It has for me."

Up to that moment Mr. Pulitzer had been able vaguely to distinguish various objects before him, although each day the persistent haze before him had been growing thicker. Now he was able only to tell vaguely daylight from night. And for the past 20 years—almost up to the moment of his death—he has been in constant touch with the morning and evening editions of his New York World and his Post-Dispatch of St. Louis, personally, during his short and infrequent visits to Manhattan and by telegraph or cable while cruising here and abroad on his yacht, although throughout this past decade he has been blind.

Boston Police Lack One Link Against Accused Preacher.

Boston, Oct. 30.—Dr. Harry M. Gardner of Cambridge, who has been Rev. C. V. T. Richeson's physician for several months, was a witness before the grand jury today in the Avis Linnell investigation. It is understood that if an indictment is returned the bill will be what is termed by the lawyers as a "blanket." It will contain many counts, differing in the description of the alleged crime, or more particularly, of the manner in which the poison could have been conveyed to the girl.

The police, it is said, have not yet been able to produce proof of just how the cyanide of potassium reached Miss Linnell, for the reason that they have not found, according to report, witnesses who can place Richeson in the company of the girl on the day she died.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Elam Harnish, known all through Alaska as "Burning Daylight," celebrates his 30th birthday with a friendly crowd of miners at the Circle City Tivoli. He is a general favorite, a hero and a pioneer in the new gold fields. The dance leads to heavy gambling in which over $100,000 is staked. Harnish loses his money and his mine but wins the mail contract of the district.

CHAPTER II.—Burning Daylight starts on his trip to deliver the mail with dogs and sledge. He tells his friends that the big Yukon gold strike will soon be on, and he intends to be in it at the start. The Indian attendants and dogs he dips over the bank and down the frozen Yukon and in the gray light is gone.

CHAPTER III.—Harnish makes a sensationally rapid run across country with the mail, appears at the Tivoli and there is another characteristic celebration. He has made a record against cold and exhaustion and is now ready to join his friends in a dash to the new gold fields.

CHAPTER IV.—Harnish decides where the gold will be found in the up-river district and buys two tons of flour, which he declares will be worth its weight in gold before the season is over.

CHAPTER V.—When Daylight arrives with his heavy outfit of flour he finds the big flat desolate. A comrade discovers gold and Harnish reaps a rich harvest. He goes to Dawson, begins investing in corner lots and staking other miners and becomes the most prominent figure in the Klondike.

CHAPTER VI.—Harnish makes fortune after fortune in the Klondike investment enables him to defeat a great combination of capitalists in a vast mining deal. He determines to return to civilization and gives a farewell celebration to his friends that is remembered as a kind of bluffs of glory.

CHAPTER VII.—The papers are full of "The King of the Klondike," and Daylight is feted by the money magnates of the country. They take him into a big copper deal and the Alaskan pioneer finds himself amid the bewildering complications of high finance.

CHAPTER VIII.—Daylight is buncoed by the moneyed men and finds that he has been led to invest his eleven millions in a manipulated scheme. He goes to meet his disloyal business partners at their offices in New York City.

CHAPTER IX.—Confronting his partners with a revolver in characteristic frontier style, he threatens to kill them if his money is not returned. They are cowed into submission, return their belongings and Harnish goes back to San Francisco with his unimpaired fortune.

CHAPTER X.—Daylight meets his fate in Dede Mason, a pretty stenographer with a crippled brother, whom she cares for. Harnish is much attracted towards her and interested in her family affairs.

and his photograph figured in it, and he knew, also, of a certain sensational chapter concerned with a woman's suicide, and with one "To Much Daylight." After that he did not talk with her again about books. He imagined what erroneous conclusions she had drawn from that particular chapter, and it stung him the more in that they were undeserved. He pumped Morrison, the clerk, who had first to vent his personal grievance against Miss Mason before he could tell what little he knew of her.

"She comes from Siskiyou County. She's very nice to work with in the office, of course, but she's rather stuck on herself—exclusive, you know."

"How do you make that out?" Daylight queried.

"Well, she thinks too much of herself to associate with those she works with, in the office here, for instance. She won't have anything to do with a fellow, you see. I've asked her out repeatedly, to the theater and the chutes and such things. But nothing doing. Says she likes plenty of sleep, and can't stay up late, and has to go all the way to Berkeley—that's where she lives. But that's all hot air. She's running with the University boys, that's what she's doing. She needs lots of sleep, and can't go to the theater with me, but she can dance all hours with them. I've heard it pretty straight that she goes to all their hops and such things. Rather stylish and high-toned for a stenographer, I'd say. And she keeps a horse, too. She rides astride all over those hills out there. I saw her one Sunday myself. Oh, she's a high-flyer, and I wonder how she does it. Sixty-five a month don't go far. Then she has a sick brother, too."

"Live with her people?" Daylight asked.

"No; hasn't got any. They were well to do, I've heard. They must have been, or that brother or hers couldn't have gone to the University of California. Her father had a big cattle ranch, but he got to fooling with mines or something, and went broke before he died. Her mother died long before that. Her brother must cost a lot of money. He was a husky once, played football, was great on hunting and being out in the mountains and such things. He got his accident breaking horses, and then rheumatism or something got into him. One leg is shorter than the other, and withered up some. He has to walk on crutches. I saw her out with him once—crossing the ferry. The doctors have been experimenting on him for years, and he's in the French Hospital now, I think."

All of which side-lights on Miss Mason went to increase Daylight's interest in her. Yet, much as he desired, he failed to get acquainted with her. He had thoughts of asking her to luncheon, but his was the innate chivalry of the frontiersman, and the thoughts never came to anything. He knew a self-respecting, square-dealing man was not supposed to take his stenographer to luncheon. Such things did happen, he knew, for he heard the chaffing gossip of the club; but he did not think much of such men and felt sorry for the girls.

CHAPTER XI.

Daylight was in the thick of his spectacular and intensely bitter fight with the Coastwise Steam Navigation Company, and the Hawaiian, Nicaraguan, and Pacific-Mexican Steamship Company. He stirred up a bigger muss than he had anticipated, and even he was astounded at the wide ramifications of the struggle and at the unexpected and incongruous interests that were drawn into it. Every newspaper in San Francisco turned upon him. It was true, one or two of them had first intimated that they were open to subsidization, but Daylight's judgment was that the situation did not warrant such expenditure. Up to this time the press had been amusingly tolerant and good-naturedly sensational about him, but now he was to learn what virulent scurrilousness an antagonized press was capable of. Every episode of his life was resurrected to serve as foundations for malicious fabrications. Daylight was frankly amazed at the new interpretation put upon all that he had accomplished and the deeds he had done. From an Alaskan hero he was metamorphosed into an Alaskan bully, liar, desperado, and all-around "bad man." The whole affair sank to the deeper depths of rancor and savagery. The poor woman who had killed herself was dragged out of her grave and paraded on thousands of reams of paper as a martyr and a victim to Daylight's ferocious brutality.

He was like a big bear raiding a bee-hive, and, regardless of the stings, he obstinately persisted in pawing for the honey. He gritted his teeth and struck back. Beginning with a raid on two steamship companies, it developed into a pitched battle with a city, state and continental coast line. Allied with him, on a splendid salary, with princely pickings thrown in, was a lawyer, Larry Hegan, a young Irishman with a reputation to make, and whose peculiar genius had been unrecognized until Daylight had picked up with him. It was Hegan who guided Daylight through the intricacies of modern politics, labor organization, and commercial and corporation law. It was Hegan, prolific of resource and suggestion, who opened Daylight's eyes to undreamed-of possibilities in twentieth-century warfare; and it was Daylight, rejecting, accepting, and elaborating, who planned the campaigns and prosecuted them. With the Pacific coast, from Puget Sound to Panama, buzzing and humming, and with San Francisco furiously about his ears, the two big steamship companies had all the appearance of winning. It looked as if Burning Daylight was being beaten slowly to his knees. And then he struck—at the steamship companies, at San Francisco, at the whole Pacific coast.

It was not much of a blow at first. A Christian Endeavor convention was being held in San Francisco, a row was started by Express Drivers' Union No. 927 over the handling of a small heap of baggage at Ferry Building. A few heads were broken, a score of arrests made, and the baggage was delivered. No one would have guessed that behind this petty wrangle was the fine Irish hand of Hegan, made potent by the Klondike gold of Burning Daylight. It was an insignificant affair at best—or so it seemed. But the Teamsters' Union took up the quarrel, backed by the whole Water Front Federation. Step by step, the strike became involved. A refusal of cooks and waiters to serve scab teamsters or teamsters' employers brought out the cooks and waiters. The butchers and meat cutters refused to handle meat destined for unfair restaurants. The combined Employers' Associations put up a solid front, and found facing them the 40,000 organized laborers of San Francisco. The restaurant bakers and the bakery wagon drivers struck, followed by the milkers, milk drivers and chicken pickers. The building trades asserted its position in unambiguous terms, and all San Francisco was in turmoil. But still, it was only San Francisco. Hegan's intrigues were masterly, and Daylight's campaign steadily developed. The powerful fighting organization known as the Pacific Slope Seamen's Union refused to work vessels the cargoes of which were to be handled by scab longshoremen and freight handlers. The union presented its ultimatum, and then called a strike. This had been Daylight's objective all the time. Every incoming coastwise vessel was boarded by the union officials and its crew sent ashore. And with the seamen went the firemen, the engineers and the sea cooks and waiters. Daily the number of idle steamers increased. It was impossible to get scab crews, for the men of the Seamen's Union were fighters trained in the hard school of the sea, and when they went out it meant blood and death to scabs. This phase of the strike spread up and down the entire Pacific coast, until all the ports were filled with idle ships, and sea transportation was at a standstill. The days and weeks dragged out, and the strike held. The Coastwise Steam Navigation Company and the Hawaiian, Nicaraguan, and Pacific-Mexican Steamship Company were tied up completely. The expenses of combating the strike were tremendous, and they were earning nothing, while daily the situation went from bad to worse, until "peace at any price" became the cry. And still there was no peace, until Daylight and his allies played out their hand, raked in the winnings, and allowed a goodly portion of a continent to resume business.

Daylight's coming to civilization had not improved him. True, he wore better clothes, had learned slightly better manners, and spoke better English. But he had hardened, and at the expense of his old-time, whole-souled geniality. Even his human affiliations were descending. Playing a lone hand, contemptuous of most of the men with whom he played, lacking in sympathy or understanding of them, and certainly independent of them, he found little in common with those to be encountered, say at the Alta-Pacific. In point of fact, when the battle with the steamship companies was at its height and his raid was inflicting incalculable damage on all business interests, he had been asked to resign from the Alta-Pacific. The idea had been rather to his liking, and he had found new quarters in clubs like the Riverside, organized and practically maintained by the city bosses.

One week-end, feeling heavy and depressed and tired of the city and its ways, he obeyed the impulse of a whim that was later to play an important part in his life. The desire to get out of the city for a whiff of country air and for a change of scene was the cause. Yet, to himself, he made the excuse of going to Glen Ellen for the purpose of inspecting a brickyard which Holdsworth had sold him. He spent the night in the little country hotel, and on Sunday morning, astride a saddle horse rented from the Glen Ellen butcher, rode out of the village. The brickyard was close at hand on the Pacific coast, the Sonoma Creek.

Resolving to have his fun first, and to look over the brickyard afterward, he rode up the hill, prospecting for a way across country to get to the knolls. He left the country road at the first gate he came to and cantered through a hayfield. The grain was waist-high on either side the wagon-road, and he sniffed the warm aroma of it with delighted nostrils. At the base of the knolls he encountered a tumble-down stake-and-rider fence.

He tethered the horse and wandered on foot among the knolls. Their tops were crowned with century-old spruce trees, and their sides clothed with oaks and madroños and native holly. But to the perfect redwoods belonged the small but deep canyon that threaded its way among the knolls. Here he found no passage out for his horse, and leading the animal, he forced his way up the hillside. On the crest he came through an amazing thicket of velvet-trunked young madroños, and emerged on an open hillside that led down into a tiny valley. The sunshine was at first dazzling in its brightness, and he paused and rested, for he was panting from the exertion. Not of old had he known shortness of breath such as this, and muscles that so easily tired at a stiff climb. A tiny stream ran down the tiny valley through a tiny meadow that was carpeted knee-high with grass and blue and white nemophila.

Crossing the stream, Daylight followed a faint cattle trail over a low, rocky hill and through a wine-wooded forest of manzanita, and emerged upon another tiny valley, down which filtered another spring-fed, meadow-bordered streamlet.

"It sure beats country places and bungalows at Menlo Park," he commented aloud; "and if ever I get the banking for country life, it's me for this every time."

OLD TIME REMEDY DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patron with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is turning gray or coming out, don't delay, but get a bottle of this remedy today, and see what a few days' treatment will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Views Chicago At a Rapid Pace

The police arrangements all along the route seemed excellent, but in several places the president was taken through a dangerously narrow space at 30 miles an hour. There were 10 automobiles in the procession and the local committee in the rear cars, who had stepped out from the hotel to enter the machines so spick and span in top hats, looked more like chimney sweeps than hosts to the president when the drive was over.

Stopped Once During Ride.

The president stepped once during the drive to address a meeting of colored men at the colored Y. M. C. A. He spoke to them of the work of the Y. M. C. A. in the far east as he had known it.

The president addressed a crowd at Orchestra hall on international peace. He attended services in the forenoon at the Auditorium, where Dr. Gun-sauls preached.

Mr. Taft received a hearty indorsement from the business men of Chicago in an address by President Harry Wheeler of the Chicago Association of Commerce, at its banquet. Mr. Wheeler reviewed the five chief policies of President Taft—a scientific revision of the tariff, currency reform, international arbitration, reciprocity and the construction of the Panama canal—and pointed out the saneness of these policies to the business men of the country.

Speaking of the tariff, Mr. Wheeler asked the question whether the public should hope to gain most in the small per capita reduction of the import duties or by the elimination of the unrest in business which uncertainty in tariff revision is causing.

McBee Trial

Serious Charge

Jesse McBee is now being tried in common pleas court for stabbing with intent to kill. The trial commenced Monday morning, and is being watched with a great deal of interest by citizens from the Jeffersonville neighborhood.

McBee is charged with stabbing to kill Ralph West, in Jeffersonville on the 29th of last April. At the time West lingered for ten days between life and death, but eventually recovered.

McBee was intoxicated at the time the crime was committed, it is claimed.

The prosecuting witness, Ralph West has been on the witness stand most of the day. Seventeen witnesses for the state and nine for the defense are in attendance.

Prosecutor Gregg looks after the state's interests and Ed L. Bush is defending.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES.

The home of Mr. Isaac Carman, a prominent farmer of the Selden neighborhood, was the scene of a very pretty little wedding Sunday afternoon, when Miss Madge Carman was married to Mr. Claude Eichelbargar, of Dayton.

Only the immediate family and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, performed by Rev. Lafayette Dodds, of Staples, Minn., a life-long friend of the family.

The bride, who is a bright girl, with more than the allotted share of friends, looked very handsome in a stunning gown of king's blue colleen poplin, elaborately trimmed.

The pretty home was embellished with autumn flowers and greenery. Miss Madge Carman came home from Otterbein college to attend the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Eichelbargar stayed from Sunday evening until today at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. E. L. Bush, leaving this morning for their new home in Dayton, where the bridegroom is a well thought of young business man.

Lima Bears Are Gallant.

Lima, O., Oct. 30.—In an attempt to end her life while despondent, Miss Anna Harter, 33, leaped into a bear pit at the City park in which were confined two large black bears. The bears, however, refused to harm her, and she was found in the pit some time later by Lee Stuckey, a park attache. The bears attacked him when he went to the woman's rescue and drove him from the pit. Returning with a hose, he subdued the bears with a stream of water and dragged Miss Harter from the inclosure. She was numbed with cold and unable to stand.

Turks In Hot Pursuit.

Constantinople, Oct. 30.—Reports received here state that the Italians are falling back and that the Turks are occupying the positions abandoned by the Italians. The latter are said to have suffered severe losses. The newspaper Ikdam goes so far as to say that the Turks have again occupied Tripoli. The story is that the Turks made a violent attack on the town when Italian ships were not present to give their support, having been compelled to go out to sea because of heavy weather.

West Virginian Fails, but Kills Father and Self.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Oct. 30.—Carroll L. James, a railroad conductor, shot and killed his father-in-law, William Pritchard; probably fatally wounded his mother-in-law, slightly injured his wife and committed suicide at Pennsboro, Ritchie county, W. Va. James broke into the Pritchard home and caught his victims while they slept. He made no effort to harm his 4-year-old daughter, who occupied the bed with her mother and grandmother.

The tragedy follows a series of sensational occurrences in this city about six weeks ago, when James shot Seymour Kuhn of Fairmont, W. Va., a fellow railroader, whom he alleged he had found with his wife at the James home. Kuhn's injury was slight. Mrs. James then made depositions showing her husband to be in a conspiracy to defraud the United States Express company.

Three Alliance Trainmen Killed in Wreck at Canton.

Canton, O., Oct. 30.—By a head-on collision of a freight train and an engine and caboose on the Lake Erie & Alliance railway, near Minerva, 13 miles southeast of here, three trainmen were killed.

The dead: Gabel Johnson, brakeman, Alliance; L. W. Frederick, fireman, Alliance; Frederick Loucks, engineer, Alliance.

The cause of the wreck is not clear, but is said to have been due to a confusion of orders. Conductors of both trains claim to have had a clear-track order.

The freight train carried several carloads of cattle. Some of the cattle cars were broken up and the released cattle are roaming about the country.

SMOKED IN THE CHURCH

CONTRIBUTES HIS MITE

AND ESCAPES SEVERE SENTENCE

Chas. Adams, white, was arraigned before the Mayor Sunday night, charged with disturbing the Christian Union meeting by smoking inside the church. Adams was arrested by the special "coppers" and when arraigned, expressed his deep sorrow that he was guilty of the trick.

The man had $3 in his pocket, and expressed a wish to do what he could to make amends for his offense. "If you will place that $3 in the contribution plate you may go without further trouble," said His Honor. "I'll do it, and do it gladly," agreed Adams, so he was escorted back to the meeting and dropped the three dollars in the contribution plate, thus cancelling his fine and placing himself "square" with the church and the city.

GOVERNMENT.

"When the lawless get a bad man in office they support him in all the evil that he does; but when the law-abiding get a man in office, too often they are ready to criticise him, and leave him to fight the battles without their active aid. That is the trouble. Good men are divided and bad men are united. If good citizens could only be induced to join hands in patriotic endeavor before the election, and stay joined after the election, the forces of error would be vanquished like evil spirits at dawn of day."—Ex-Governor Folk.

FRIENDS PLOT TO AID EX-KING OF PORTUGAL

Their Activities Embarrassing to Officials of English Capital.

LONDON—Special) — Portuguese monarchist refugees are continuing their plotting in London for King Manuel's restoration to the throne.

Just how deeply the ex-king himself is concerned in the conspiracies is uncertain, but there is no doubt that he is at least kept informed of what is going on.

The Marquis de Soveral, who was a Portuguese minister in England up to the time of Manuel's deposition, is probably the real life of the conspiracies, in which several English men and women of very high birth and considerable wealth are also said to be interested.

It is an open secret that the English government is seriously annoyed by refugees' activity and has been several times on the point of intimating to the foreign plotters that, unless they let Portuguese politics alone, the government would prefer a termination of their residence on British soil.

The situation is, however, somewhat embarrassing, Manuel himself being a very close friend of the English royal family and the Marquis de Soveral, as one of the late King Edward's closest personal cronies, a man whom it is more than unpleasant to offend.

The plotters in England are in close touch with those in Spain, along the Portuguese frontier, and it is understood that the plan is for an invasion of northern Portugal at the psychological moment, with Manuel at the invaders' head.

Needs Encouragement

THE FAMILY AND Friends of the Family assembled to Sit in Judgment on a Young Man.

"When he was a Small Child," they said, "the keenness of the Eyes he cast on his Toys; the Grasp of his Intellect when he Told 'O' from 'X'; the endless attempts he made to fit a square block into a round hole, denoting Persistency. Amazed and Delighted us, and as He grew older He showed other Signs of a Master Mind."

"He has Genius, and All he needs is Encouragement to Make a Great Man of him."

Then they Called on a Prominent Business man who was kept so Busy and Bothered all day he Could not say at night what was his Own name, and said to Him:

"This Young Man needs encouragement to make him become a Great Man. Give him a Job and find Time to Encourage him Every hour with a Kind Word and You will do a great Thing for the World by helping to Develop a Great Man."

But the Prominent Business Man was Not en-thu-si-as-tic; He was Busy and Brothered and Cross and Tired and Had at that Moment three Young Men working for him whose parents Demanded Kind words of encouragement for them and Whose Carelessness almost Drove him insane, and so he replied in a very testy tone:

"I don't want a Genius around me; I want a Plug; Some One Who seeks to be careful and isn't weighted Down with the Desire to be Great. I am Half Crazy now with Employees who want to be come Great, and who don't know Enough Not to be Careless. Take Him Away!"

The Family and Frineds of the Family took away the Young Man who Sought to become Great, and to all they Met on the Road They told the Story of the Prominent Business Man who had refused to Give the Genius a Job, and help him to become Great by Kind Words of Encouragement.

"He is jealous of our Young Man," they explained, "He sees a Rival in Him!"

The Prominent Business Man Sighed, and that night he was More Tired than ever.

And on the way home, in recalling the Great Number of his Careless Employees who Demanded Kind Words of Encouragement every hour, and who were so Careless It Was Not Safe to Trust them with Matches, he grew desperate, and Jumped off the Bridge into the river.

"This world contains Too Many Careless Young People who want to become Great," were his last words when he Made the Plunge.

Tommy—Well, you won't get a good supper.

Tommy's Papa—Tommy, what do you mean, talking like that?

Tommy—Well, you know, pa, you told ma you'd have to get some chicken feed for her old hen party to-morrow.—Baltimore American.

One Secret of Success

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of Herald.

Three times the good, true men—the home-lovers of Washington, have spoken on the wet and dry question. Each time with a larger majority than before, for home, clean manhood, good womanhood and a law abiding town. This has been done not by the Democratic party, nor the Republican party, but by real men who deemed the temperance question, governing the environment in which their children's characters were to be formed, more important than any party.

And what citizen is not proud of Washington today. Everywhere it is held up as the best governed city in Ohio. A place where laws are enforced, where law-breakers are punished impartially.

Under present conditions real estate has advanced 25 per cent, and prosperity is everywhere evident. Farmers are coming here to educate their children, buying homes, because the saloons and gambling halls are closed. The immoral element driven from the city and the bootleggers fought to a stand still. It is a safe place to raise children.

Because of its good government, Washington C. H. is the envy of every other county seat in the state. Some other towns that have been dry recently voted wet for the reason that the law was a dead letter—had never been enforced. Shall we not keep up our high standard? No man can be elected mayor of our city who tries to carry water on both shoulders. The people will not give their vote to a man who is a negative quantity. He must be for Washington as she now is. And who will vote for this man who some times makes mistakes, but who nevertheless has raised Washington to her present standard? What wet man what bootlegger, what gambler, what law breaker. Not one. Which side are you on? Will you vote to go forward or backward?

Can we afford at this time to experiment with unknown, untried men? For some reason all of the class just named will not vote for the present mayor but will vote for one of the other two candidates. Why?

Watch the chess-board, it may be that the would-be statesmen, the manipulators of elections (the ones who have tried and failed to thwart the rule of the people) will succeed in getting one of the candidates to get tired and pull off. Wonder which one?

Voters of Washington, don't let politics, petty spite, a pinching shoe, make you narrow.

Rise above such things. Be men of broad minds. Stand by our homes or children, our dear old Washington.

ONE WHO LOVES THIS CITY.

A FAIR OFFER.

Your Money Back if You're not Satisfied.

We pay for all the medicine used during the trial, if our remedy fails to completely relieve you of constipation. We take all the risk. You are not obligated to us in any way whatever, if you accept our offer. That's a mighty broad statement, but we mean every word of it. Could anything be more fair for you?

A most scientific, common-sense treatment is Rexall Orderlies, which are eaten like candy. Their active principle is a recent scientific discovery that is odorless, colorless, and tasteless; very pronounced, yet gentle and pleasant in action, and particularly agreeable in every way. They do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, flatulence, griping, or any inconvenience whatever. Rexall Orderlies are particularly good for children, aged and delicate persons.

If you suffer from chronic or habitual constipation, or the associate or dependent chronic ailments, we urge you to try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. Remember, you can get them in Washington only at our store. 12 tablets 10 cents; 36 tablets 25 cents; 80 tablets 50 cents. Sold only at our store—The Rexall store. Blackmer & Tanquary.

Episcopalians Will Hold Weekly Services

The first Episcopal service held in the parlors of the Imperial Hotel Sunday afternoon, was attended by twenty members of that denomination and was one of simple impressiveness, conducted by Arch Deacon Thos. W. Cook, of Dayton.

Rev. Cooke was accompanied by one of his vestry men, Mr. Baker.

The archdeacon is a fine man and magnetic speaker and aroused no little enthusiasm towards the establishment of an Episcopal church in this city.

It was decided to hold services every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and a committee was appointed to secure a hall.

Archdeacon Cook will come over from Dayton to conduct the services for the present.

Mayor Allen's Platform

To The Citizens of Washington:

If re-elected to the office of Mayor of this City I will continue in the future, as in the past, to strictly and impartially enforce the law against—

Bootlegging, Gambling,
Immorality, Petty Thieving,
Night Prowling, Window Peeping,
Loafing, Vagrancy,

and all other laws on the statute books, showing no partiality to anyone—be he white or black, rich or poor, and no matter what his standing.

The citizens of this city will also be protected against return of large number of "Undesirables" who have been guilty of the above named crimes.

It will be my constant endeavor to, at all times, work for the advancement and best interests of the city and welfare of her citizens.

If this platform meets with your approval your vote will be appreciated.

Respectfully, RELL G. ALLEN.

Our Center of Population

The exact center of population of the United States has been located in the premises of a furniture factory at Bloomington, Ind. In the accompanying photograph the interesting spot is where the instrument is placed. On the left are Prof. W. O. Cogshall and Prof. C. A. Drew of the astronomical department of Indiana university, who made the calculations that located the center of population.

TATTOOING IN MANY LANDS GREAT CLOCK OF ST. MARK'S

Tattooing is universal in the South Sea Islands, and common among the North and South American Indians, the Dyaks, the Burmese, the Chinese, and the Japanese. Its introduction to Europe was undoubtedly due to sailors, and among civilized western peoples it is practically confined to the seafaring class and to sailors. Among the Polynesians tattooing probably reached the greatest perfection. In the Marquesa group, for example, men were tattooed all over, even the tips of the fingers and toes, and the crown of the head being covered with fantastic designs. As from three to six months were occupied by each separate operation, commencing at birth, a man must have attained to the age of thirty, at least, before the entire scheme of bodily decoration was completed. Among the Kabyles and Arabs of Algeria, children are tattooed by their mothers as a means of identification.

Probably the rudest form of tattooing is that in vogue among the aborigines of Australia and certain tribes of negroes. The method adopted by these races consists in cutting gashes on the skin, arranged in patterns, and then filling the wounds with clay, these forming raised scars. This mode, as opposed to the more common device of pricking with a needle, is practically confined to the black races. Among certain African tribes, notably the Kaffirs, tattooing is an honor bestowed upon a warrior who has distinguished himself in war. A long incision is made in the thigh, which is then rubbed with cinners until sufficiently discolored. The Egyptians and the Eskimos regard one who lives his days without being tattooed as endangering his happiness in the hereafter.

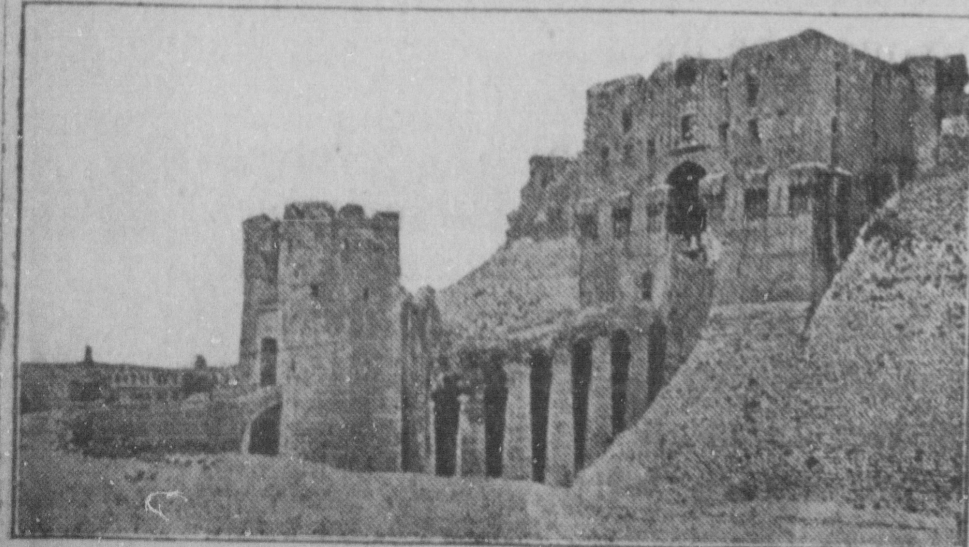

A BLIND STENOGRAPHER

Maurice J. Myers, a blind stenographer, reported all the discussions at the conference on the treatment of the blind held recently at Exeter, England. Mr. Myers' notes, which were recorded on a narrow strip of paper, extended to a length of two and a quarter miles, and contained approximately 800,000 dots. This clever shorthand writer, who can take notes at a speed of 155 words a minute, helped to formulate "the Birmingham system of embossed shorthand." He was trained at the Birmingham Royal Institution for the Blind.

DOG SWALLOWS LONG HATPIN

Mrs. Pauline Nesselin of St. Louis has a dog with prize-winning digestive organs. Her Boston terrier Fudge survived carrying a ten-inch hatpin in his interior, for ten days. A veterinarian then removed the offending fastener from the dog's anatomy. Fudge is twenty inches long.

Young Turks as Vandals

The Young Turks, who are now ordering the destinies of their country, are committing many acts of vandalism in their desire to be up to date, and are destroying historic monuments. Among these are the castle of Aleppo and the vast stone-faced "tell" on which it stands. The latter is the site of a city of great antiquity, the Khaleb of the Hittites and Assyrians, the Chalybon of Xenophon and the Souleides. Some of the "tell" was skinned years ago for the sake of the stone, and now it is planned to raise both the castle and the "tell."

CONVERSES WITH ANIMALS

Charles Kellogg of California, who, if not a nature-faker, is one of the most remarkable human beings of all time, arrived at Cambridge, Mass., recently from Paris to confer with professors from Harvard's department of science, confident that he could convince them of his ability to converse with animals. Mr. Kellogg has just returned from Europe, where he gave demonstrations of his unique power before professors of the universities of Paris and Berlin. According to Mr. Kellogg, he has accomplished in reality during a life spent in the wilds of the Sierra Nevada mountains in California what the genius of Kipling makes Mowgli accomplish during a childhood passed in the tropical jungles. But Kellogg has for friends only the animals of the temperate American west. He knows not the language of the tropical monkey, though he has often talked "bear" with the grizzlies of the Sierra Nevadas. Crickets, squirrels, lizards and rattlesnakes are some of the other animals whose languages Mr. Kellogg speaks fluently. Says Mr. Kellogg:

"It was by years of constant observation and associating of sounds with actions that I mastered the 15 animal languages I am familiar with. I began on domestic chickens and gradually extended my study to include such wild animals and reptiles as the bear, the lizard and the rattlesnake. Using a system of hieroglyphics modeled upon the modern Chinese system, I have compiled a dictionary of the language of the ordinary brown or hearth cricket, which has the most highly developed language of any of the animals I am familiar with, though I have reason to suspect the monkeys are superior in this respect. From my dictionary I find there are 27 elemental words or sounds, and 85 other words made up of various combinations of the original 27, a cumulative system not unlike that of the Germans. The number of words or sounds in other animal languages I am familiar with varies from 12 to 95."

Although Mr. Kellogg admits that his ability to interpret the enunciations of animals is the result of long and arduous study, he insists that his ability to make himself understood, to imitate the sounds of these animals, is God-given. He says he can without the least difficulty reproduce any sound that comes from an animal's throat. He has a peculiarly constructed palate, no tonsils, and the cord connecting the teeth with the lower lip is entirely missing, but he has been assured by the most noted specialists that there is nothing abnormal about his throat and vocal cords. They are at a loss to account for his strange gift.

LARGEST OF PROJECTILES

The accompanying illustration is of more than ordinary interest from the fact that it shows the largest and heaviest projectile in the world, being the huge five-foot, armor-piercing shell fired from the United States government's great 16-inch rifle, which may be taken to the Panama canal. This giant shell and powerful gun are considered two of the most destructive and deadly engines of warfare in existence. The monster 16-inch rifle, the only one built so far, is now at the Sandy Hook proving grounds, and has only been fired a few times. The huge shell of steel can be hurled a distance of 20 miles or more, and weighs 2,400 pounds. The powder charge is nearly 500 pounds. The cost of firing one shot reaches in the neighborhood of $1,000. It is not probable that this type of gun will be used, but rather the 14 inch, for the main coast defenses of the Panama canal. This formidable and long range weapon, though capable of firing so tremendous a projectile, is too costly, and fires too slowly for modern warfare.

FRENCH FISH GO ON A JAG

An unusual sight was witnessed at Frontignan, France, recently. The ponds of Eau Blanches and the Midi Canal were covered with fish floating about on the surface in a helpless and altogether inexplicable manner. The customs officials were the unwitting cause of this phenomenon. They had seized 66,000 gallons of "doctored" Spanish wine at the frontier station and disposed of it by emptying it into the canal, with disastrous effects on the fish. The fish could be easily caught with the hand and the local fishermen were quick to take advantage of their helpless state.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The call for the Republican national convention to be issued by the national committee when it meets in Washington, Dec. 12, will provide for 1,064 delegates, to be increased to 1,072 if Arizona and New Mexico become states before the convention is held. Under the new apportionment Ohio gets 48 delegates, two more than at present.

Four Killed In Wreck.

Toledo, O., Oct. 30.—As the result of a collision between a Pere Marquette engine and a freight train near Carleton, Mich., four Italians are dead and two are seriously injured. All of the Italians were riding on the pilot of the engine when it crashed into a boxcar.

Auto Kills Little Girl.

Columbus, O., Oct. 30.—Rachel Marshall, 5, daughter of Carlet, a Marshall of the West Jefferson Creamery company, while examining the front part of her father's auto stepped out into the roadway and was killed by an electric auto occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews. Andrews was absolved from blame by the parent of the child.

Accidentally Shoots Himself.

Napoleon, O., Oct. 30.—Marlin Heckler, 14, suffered dangerous and perhaps fatal wounds from the accidental discharge of a shotgun as he sat down on a log while hunting rabbits. The muscles in his abdomen, chest and left arm were torn away.

Canton, O., Oct. 30.—The jury in the case of Virgil Robert, 19-year-old Minerva boy, charged with shooting Faber Elder in a quarrel over Mrs. Elder, returned a verdict of manslaughter.

Doctor Killed by Train.

Niles, O., Oct. 30.—Dr. H. S. Brown, 45, was almost instantly killed when his motorcar was struck by an eastbound train on the Erie railroad, at the North Main street crossing.

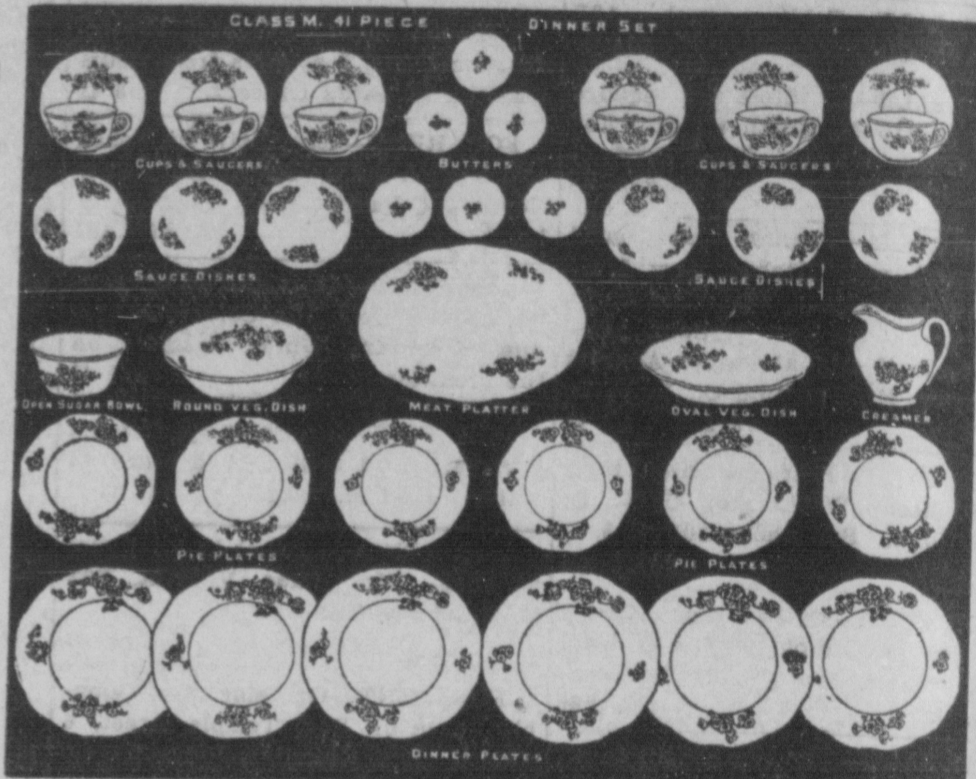

Financier Dies In Columbus.

Columbus, O., Oct. 30.—Carlisle Barre, 66, attorney and capitalist, died following a paralytic stroke sustained Wednesday. He formerly lived at Chillicothe and Hillsboro.
